Enrichment and natural wearing of the beak

PickPuck – the automatized enrichment option especially for layers with untrimmed beaks

Poultry farmers as well as their layers will benefit from the newly developed Big Dutchman product PickPuck. PickPuck occupies the hens and remains permanently interesting because the birds can act out their natural behaviour of searching for feed.

A swinging plate with a coarse surface is suspended below a drop pipe with attractive feed such as wheat. When a hen picks onto the plate or nudges it from the side, this movement dispenses a small amount of feed that the hens can then peck. The specially coated surface of the plate incidentally also wears down the beak in a natural manner. Grains dropping into the litter additionally promote the natural scratching behaviour.

PickPuck can be installed in the aisle area

Our recommendation:
Install PickPuck every 4 to 5 meters.

PickPuck can be installed in the litter aisles of aviaries or in the winter garden. Its height can be adjusted. The amount of feed that is dispensed when the plate is moved can be regulated at the hopper. Any type of conveying system (e.g. a FlexVey spiral) can fill PickPuck automatically. To clean the house, PickPuck can be taken down easily.

The advantages at a glance

- ✓ clever, permanently interesting occupation;
- ✓ supports the natural wearing of the beak;
- ✓ promotes natural behaviours such as scratching;
- ✓ easy to install in the bird area;
- ✓ automatic filling;
- ✓ good price/performance ratio.
